SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK BY O. O. McINTYRE

Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-122 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, May 22.—At last some use has been found for a full growth of whiskers, even when they are not parted in the middle. In the past the long beard of lace curtain style of whiskers have been regarded as the home and abiding place of germs, ticks and now and then a field mouse and also certain fauna indigenous to the land in which the owner of the whiskers has his habitation.

But now another use has been discovered for the brush that surrounds the face of the care-free citizen who does not care what happens. Read on:

Isaac Goldman, of Bayonne, has a crop of foliage that reaches his waist when he unfurls them to the ozone. Business brought him to New York last week. He was walking through Avenue C when he encountered Frank Gallagher.

Gallagher later told his story to a police magistrate. "While I was walking my foot slipped or something; I don't know what. I stuck my hand out in the air to grasp anything and my fingers closed on a bunch of whiskers. I found later they belonged to Goldman."

The magistrate, if he had had a sense of humor, might have inquired, "Did Goldman yell 'Let 'er go Gallagher?'" But he didn't. He fined Gallagher ten lovely dollars.

The headwaiter at Joel's, who acts as a savings bank for strolling players, has been left a fortune by the death of an uncle. The latter was a captain in the Austrian army and is said to have bequeathed his nephew $50,000. He will continue to headwait, however, for he says he enjoys nothing so much as watching actors eat. He says a lot of them eat regularly just like other folk.

Flash alley celebrities are constantly running into the people known as the "How do you do-ers?" They are the individuals who will call actors by their first name in passing to impress whoever might be with them when as a matter of fact they never met.

The polite celebrities of course respond to the salutation and pass on thinking the face and name has slipped their memory. The other day a man came up and slapped Harry Fox on the back. "Hi Harry," he said. "How's every little thing?"

Mr. Fox looked him over, didn't recognize him and said so. "Don't remember me?" said the stranger. "Why, I'm the man that wrote you two years ago that I was the champion coffee cake dunker of Tennessee, N. J."

And then he walked away, leaving Mr. Fox wondering just who it was that had been kidded.

Bide Dudley tells a story of preparedness on Harry Meyers, a theater treasurer. Meyers went out with the boys the other night and didn't get home until noon the next day. His mother was much perturbed, but Meyers was expecting this and had his lib. After the scolding he took a bottle of olives from his pocket and showed it to her.

For the 20,000 delegates to the National Clubwoman's biennial convention this week, the New York committee will have ready 400,000 hairpins, 5,000 fans, 200 pairs of scissors, 10,000 pencils, 20,000 writing pads, 100 bottles of smelling salts and a barrel or so of pink and white face powder.

A Chili Con Carne cafe has opened off Fifth avenue for the social smart set. It is being patronized, too. The dish is so hot that one patron suggested they serve a half dozen kerchiefs with each order.

CLARKSBURG FOLKS PRAISE TANLAC

Both Get Better Appetite and Rheumatism Does Not Bother as It Did for So Long.

MR. RADCLIFF AND HIS DAUGHTER ENDORSE IT

Everybody out around North View knows Mr. H. A. Radcliff and he states both he and his daughter after taking Tanlac a short while have so wonderfully increased their appetites, he is likely to go broke and eat everything in sight. He said:

"I suffered from loss of appetite and rheumatism. I had pains in my shoulders and arms and took Tanlac on the strength of what Mr. Renfrow, the Tanlac representative, told me. So did my daughter and I must say this medicine deserves the good name it already has won here in Clarksburg, for as I said, my appetite has greatly improved and it does seem good to enjoy a real square meal once more. The rheumatic pains I once had no longer trouble me anywhere as much and I've been so greatly benefited I want to recommend it to everybody." Signed—H. A. Radcliff, Fifth and Williams St., North View, Clarksburg, W. Va.

"Mr. Radcliff has been a resident of North View two years and for many has been well known around Clarksburg as a Machine Man at the Glass Plant where they make the goblets that Xmas Egg-Nogg is served in," writes Mr. Renfrow in sending Mr. Radcliff's statement in to the main office, where all are compiled for the purpose of compiling someday a treatise on ailments of the stomach, kidney, and liver.

Tanlac is now being introduced here in Clarksburg, through Farrell's Drug store, two doors above the Odeon theatre, $1 per bottle. Ask Mr. Renfrow to explain more about Tanlac and how it should be taken to insure maximum results, or get a bottle today—Advertisement.
